Happy Fogust to all!

How is everyone doing? Are you enjoying the summer by traveling, visiting family, sitting around enjoying the weather or are you dealing with life on a day to day basis? Any of these ways indicates we are alive and being part of existence.

I was recently chatting with someone and we became philosophical about life and what it hands you over the years. Have you ever sat down and thought about all the things you have experienced and what the outcomes were? I know some of them were not great, but maybe those are teaching moments. Then there are the good ones, which you cherish or improve on depending on your frame of mind. I am of the thought of improving yourself in either situation. Learning about ourselves and life is important in order for us to survive.

I meet people who prefer to hold grudges or not talk to someone and I ask, why? Was the experience so horrific that you can't move on from it or are you just being unforgiving? Unforgiving is the best way to not do problem solving and is, honestly, lazy. If a situation was so bad that you cannot let go of it then delve a little more into why you can't let go. Sometimes it hurts to go deeper because we are not ready to face our fear.

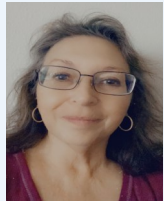

In my profession as a physical therapist I was a healer of the body and mostly of the mind. Injuries usually occur when you are consumed by anger, frustration or stress. I could write a book on things told to me during that 32 years of helping to heal people.

When you get to the point of having physical pain, look for the reason it has manifested. Check yourself and see what is going on in your life and forgive yourself or someone else. You will free yourself and your mind.

PS...I do not profess to be a psychologist, just someone who is using the wisdom of years.

Enjoy the summer,

Lorraine Smith

COFFEE AND DONUTS Visit with your neighbors in the Clubhouse on Fridays, from 8 - 10 am. Grey Bears grocery delivery arrives around 9 am, and the group tends to thin out afterwards, as people leave to take their groceries home.

BRIDGE is played in the Clubhouse on Mondays and Fridays. These are two different groups. To join the Friday group, contact Ellie by texting her at 408-779-2451. Show up at the clubhouse for the Monday group.

GAME DAY meets in the Clubhouse from 1 pm-4 pm on Tuesdays. The group usually plays Rummy for the first half of the period and Mexican Trains (a dominos game) for the second half. Show up during game times for information.

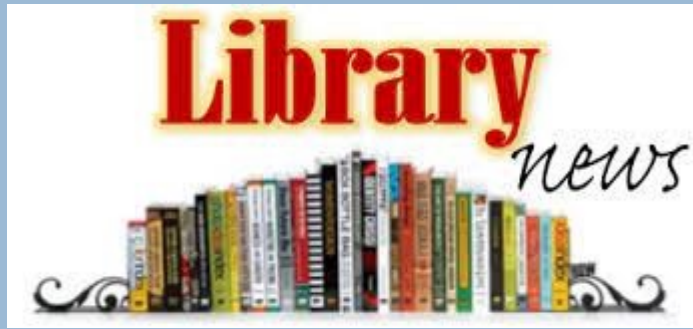

WATER AEROBICS meets Monday-Wednesday-Friday from 9 am-10 am. This is a low impact activity and is suitable for both swimmers and non-swimmers. Contact Alyce Amor amorp139@aol.com with any questions.

YOGA meets on Monday and Wednesdays at 10:15 am—12 pm in the Clubhouse. Teacher Mitra Treadwell leads a class of invigorating yoga. Mitra has been practicing yoga for 50 years and teaching yoga for 43 years. Contact Mitra Treadwell mitrayoga@yahoo.com with any questions.

If anyone would like to lead an activity in the clubhouse and are looking for participants, please contact me and I will advertise it on this page.

AUGUST 2022 ——Christie Cockrell

In response to suggestions by library patrons, we'd like to assemble a shelf or two of women's studies/feminist books. We invite and welcome all donations of appropriate material for these shelves, including recent (auto) biography and politics/sociology/gender studies, classic titles in the field, fiction by feminist authors, and fiction with strong and/or admirable women protagonists, dealing with issues that affect our being and well-being.

In connection with this, can those who use the library regularly please opine on which old books might be removed to make room for this and any other new initiatives? Does anyone still read the Readers Digest anthologies which appear never to be touched? What about cookbooks, hobbies, spirituality, self-help, large print, travel, etc.? Any other requests that might be addressed in updating and winnowing out the present collection? Mystery/Thriller continues to be the most popular section, followed by Romance. We have considered combining the paperbacks and hardbacks in these categories to make it easier to browse for favorite or not-yet-discovered authors, but that would require a huge repositioning of shelves (moving all those in the paperback section up a notch or two to accommodate the larger formats) besides having to move the books themselves. For the time being, anyway, we'll ask you to continue checking both places to find titles that interest you.

Suggestions/strong feelings about which books should not be gotten rid of can be emailed to Christie and John at bonnard3@gmail.com, or written down and placed in the small plastic box that will be located on top of the regular book return/donation bin next to the TV in the library.

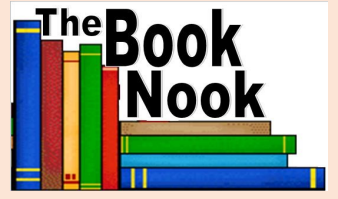

Thanks very much for helping keep our collection of books equitable and attractive to all.

Incidentally, the Goodwill drop-off in the Whole Foods parking lot no longer accepts books that are not in good condition. It seems those must now just be discarded—unless anyone knows of other places that will accept them? (Please let us know.) It's really hard to throw away a book, we know (it hurts!), but that, sadly, has to be done. The glue in bindings makes recycling not an option either. And if you're interested in inexpensive books, the Friends of the Capitola Library has reopened their big bookstore in the Capitola Mall, with most books selling for $1 or $2 each (cash or check only).

*I would like to personally thank Christie and John for volunteering to do this task every month for the last 3 years. Christie makes the recommendations every month for new books to read and gives them a category. Anyone who contributes to this newsletter is truly appreciated by myself, since it is your work and time.

On Board (exploring the world's waterways, from this place by the water)

Recommendations by Christie Cochrell

Andrea Barrett, The Voyage of the Narwhal (novel)

"Capturing a crucial moment in the history of exploration—the mid-nineteenth century romance with the Arctic—Andrea Barrett's compelling novel tells the story of a fateful expedition. Through the eyes of the ship's scholar-naturalist, Erasmus Darwin Wells, we encounter the Narwhal's crew, its commander, and the far-north culture of the Esquimaux. In counterpoint, we meet the women left behind in Philadelphia, explorers only in imagination."

Caroline Alexander, Mrs. Chippy's Last Expedition: The Remarkable Journal of Shackleton's Polar-Bound Cat (fiction)

"Closely based on the true events of Shackleton's heroic journey, and illustrated with authentic photographs taken by Frank Hurley, expedition photographer, Mrs. Chippy's Last Expedition is a firsthand account of one of the greatest adventures in history—from a unique point of view." "Alexander has done a fine job. . . allowing the cat's (and her own) sense of humor to have full run." (NY Times Book Review)

John Steinbeck, The Log from the Sea of Cortez (travelogue)

"In 1940, Steinbeck and his close friend, biologist Ed Ricketts, embarked on a month long marine specimen-collecting expedition in the Gulf of California, which resulted in their collaboration on the Sea of Cortez. In 1951, after Ricketts's death, Steinbeck reissued his narrative portion of the work in memory of his friend and the inspiration for Cannery Row's 'Doc.' This exciting day-by-day account of their journey together is a rare blend of science, philosophy, and high-spirited adventure."

Christina Thompson, Sea People: The Puzzle of Polynesia (history)

"Magnificent. . . . A grand, symphonic, beautifully written book. . . . Sea People is an archive-researched historical account that has the page-turning qualities of an all-absorbing mystery." (Boston Globe) "A blend of Jared Diamond's Guns, Germs, and Steel and Simon Winchester's Pacific, a thrilling intellectual detective story that looks deep into the past to uncover who first settled the islands of the remote Pacific, where they came from, how they got there, and how we know."

Kenneth Brower, The Starship and the Canoe (biography)

"Freeman Dyson is a world-renowned astrophysicist who dreams of exploring the heavens and has designed a spaceship to take him there. His son George, a brilliant high school dropout, lives in a treehouse and is designing a giant kayak to explore the icy coastal wilderness of the Pacific Northwest and Alaska. Author Kenneth Brower describes with stunning impact their lives and their visions of the world. It is a timeless tale framed by modern science, adventure, family, and the natural world."

Dave Eggers, Annie Dills, The Lights and Types of Ships at Night (picture book)

"In warm and witty prose, this picture book's narrator asks the reader to consider the splendor of glowing lights cast by ships on a shimmering waterway. Meet a trawler, a steamship, a RoRo, an exploratory vessel and more across richly illustrated pages, alive with the glowy, otherworldly nighttime scenes of boats as seen from a child's perspective."

L.T.C. Rolt, Narrow Boat (history)

"First published in 1944, and now reissued over 60 years on, this fully illustrated book has become a classic on its subject, and may be said to have started a revival of interest in the English waterways. It was on a spring day in 1939 that L.T.C. Rolt first stepped aboard Cressy. This engaging book tells the story of how he and his wife adapted and fitted out the boat as a home, and recreates the journey of some 400 miles that they made along the network of waterways in the Midlands. It recalls the boatmen and their craft, and celebrates the then seemingly timeless nature of the English countryside through which they passed."

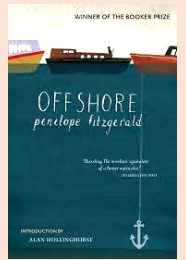

Dorothy Herrmann, Robert Jones, Hitchcock's California: Vista Visions From the Camera Eye

"Part tribute, part pictorial essay, and part travelogue, this stunning hardbound book is truly the first art book that does justice to the art of legendary movie director Alfred Hitchcock. More than 100 original photographs, dozens of 'behind the scenes' vintage photos from Hitchcock's movies, and a ranging conversation between noted Hitchcock scholar Dan Auiler and photojournalist Robert Jones. Joel Gunz of Alfred Hitchcock Geek remarks of this volume: 'It's a coffee table book; It's almost a coffee table!'"

Penelope Fitzgerald, Offshore (novel)

"This Booker Prize-winning novel of loneliness and connecting is set among the houseboat community of the Thames. On the Battersea Reach, a mixed bag of the slightly disreputable, the temporarily lost, and the patently eccentric live on houseboats, rising and falling with the tides of the Thames. There is good-natured Maurice, by occupation a male prostitute, by chance a receiver of stolen goods. And Richard, an ex-navy man whose boat, much like its owner, dominates the Reach. Then there is Nenna, an abandoned wife and mother of two young girls running wild on the muddy foreshore, whose domestic predicament, as it deepens, will draw this disparate community together."

Colin Dexter, The Wench Is Dead (mystery)

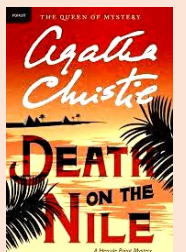

"It is only to entertain himself in the hospital that the impatient Inspector Morse opens the little book called Murder on the Oxford Canal. But so fascinating is the story it tells—of the notorious 1859 murder of Joanna Franks aboard the canal boat Barbara Bray—that not even Morse's attractive nurses can distract him from it. Was Joanna really raped and murdered by fellow passengers? Morse believes the men hanged for the crime were innocent. Now, in one of the most dazzling investigations of his career, Morse sets out to piece together the shattered past, hoping to expose the shocking truth about the Barbara Bray."

Ngaio Marsh, Clutch of Constables (mystery)

"At loose ends, with her detective husband, Roderick Allen, otherwise occupied, artist Troy Alleyn embarks on a pleasure cruise down the Thames. She is accompanied by a colorful cast of characters. Early on in the cruise, Troy notices the charming countryside, a stand of elms, a local pub, and exclaims, 'The place is swarming with Constables... A perfect clutch of them.' She is referring to John Constable, a British landscape painter whose work consisted of scenes such as the ones Troy was viewing from the boat."

Agatha Christie, Death on the Nile (mystery)

"Beloved detective Hercule Poirot embarks on a journey to Egypt in one of Agatha Christie's most famous mysteries. The tranquility of a luxury cruise along the Nile is shattered by the discovery that Linnet Ridgeway has been shot through the head. She was young, stylish, and beautiful. A girl who had everything . . . until she lost her life. With an obvious suspect who cannot possibly have committed the crime, it is up to Hercule Poirot to probe the depths of a remarkable criminal mind and discover the dark secret behind what is only the first in a series of inexplicable deaths."

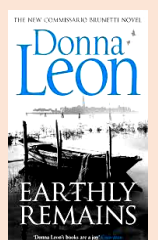

Ruth Ware, The Woman in Cabin 10 (mystery)

"In this tightly wound, enthralling story reminiscent of Agatha Christie's works, Lo Blacklock, a journalist who writes for a travel magazine, has just been given the assignment of a lifetime: a week on a luxury cruise with only a handful of cabins. The sky is clear, the waters calm, and the veneered, select guests jovial as the exclusive cruise ship, the Aurora, begins her voyage in the picturesque North Sea. At first, Lo's stay is nothing but pleasant: the cabins are plush, the dinner parties are sparkling, and the guests are elegant. But as the week wears on, frigid winds whip the deck, gray skies fall, and Lo witnesses what she can only describe as a dark and terrifying nightmare: a woman being thrown overboard. The problem? All passengers remain accounted for—and so, the ship sails on as if nothing has happened, despite Lo's desperate attempts to convey that something (or someone) has gone terribly, terribly wrong..."

Donna Leon, Earthly Remains (mystery)

"Under doctor's orders to take a break from his police work, Commissario Guido Brunetti heads to the island of Sant'Erasmus in the Venice lagoon, the often swampy waters surrounding the Venetian archipelago. There he'll resume a hobby from younger days: rowing in the shallow Venetian boats called puparin, shorter than the more well-known gondola, in which the oarsman stands. His rowing mentor will be Davide Casati, the caretaker of the villa in which Brunetti stays and friend of Brunetti's late father. The recuperative stay goes according to plan until Casati goes missing following a sudden storm."

COMMUNITY NEWS

Welcome to the neighborhood

Karen Scott, HOA Board Secretary and Sandy Brunette, Arroyo Association President, are working together to present an educational welcome session for newcomers in the park. 50 new homeowners have moved into De Anza in the last 30 months! The purpose of the meeting is to meet new homeowners and provide an informational binder to each new homeowner.

The binder provides mobile home park facts and includes information from De Anza Management and some social services. It will also inform new residents of activities and amenities in the Park. There will be discussion about how to resolve any park concerns.

Date: Thursday, August 19 When: 6pm Where: Clubhouse

PARK CONCERNS

We now have someone to take our concerns to on the HOA Board. Margaret Gannon is the new Park Concerns Director and has already been doing a great job of helping to resolve any issues residents have reported.

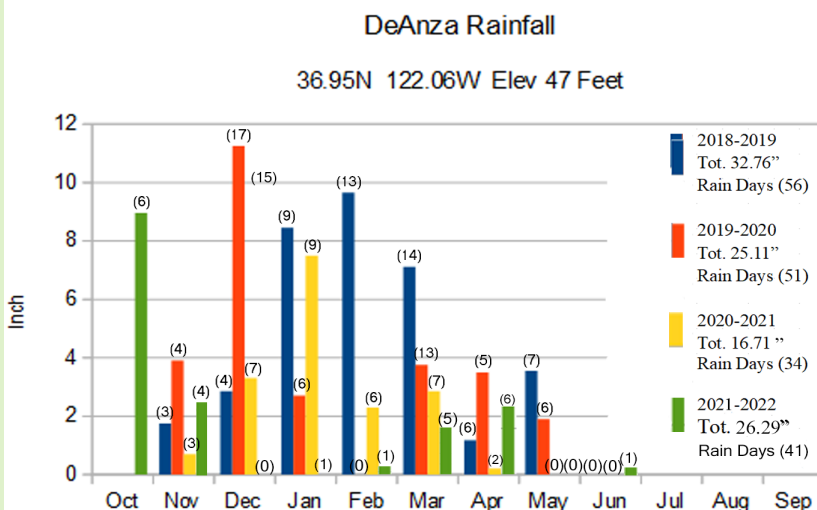

She can be reached at deanzasantacruzhoa@gmail.com or mgannonm@comcast.net. Please remember the HOA cannot resolve all issues. They are only here to support the community to report any concerns and relay them to management.

I currently update the website as well as write the Bulletin. My time is becoming more involved with parent care and I would like to know if anyone would like to take over the website updates. It is a volunteer job, but a needed position to keep our residents informed about what is happening in our community. If anyone is interested, please contact me with questions or interest.
